SEMBLANCE OF ORDER RESTORED

Appeal Made To The People To Prevent Outbreak Which Would Bring About Interference Of Foreign Powers—City Of Port au Prince Guarded.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Port au Prince, Dec. 2.—With Nord Alexis on the French training ship and the provisional government in the hands of a committee of safety with General Legitime as nominal president the city is becoming quiet.

All Factions.
All the friends of Simon, Plam, Pouchard and Menes, the four candidates for the presidency at the coming election, have united in restoring peace and order to prevent any possibility of foreign intervention.

Legitime.
Legitime, the acting president, was a candidate for the office of President in 1888 and 1889 against Hippolyte and was defeated and until that president's death an exile.

Authorities Busy.
The stirring events of the exciting historical day when Pres. Nord Alexis was driven from the capital with an infuriated mob at his heels, were followed by a night of looting and pillage.

Twelve Killed.
The authorities succeeded in controlling the situation finally but not before twelve men were killed and many injured.

Given Authority.
General Pouchard, who last evening formed a company of citizens and soldiers, and stopped the looting and disorder.

order, was today made military governor of Port au Prince by public safety committee.

A Large Force.
A sufficient force to maintain order will be placed at his disposal and all factional leaders will aid him to preserve peace.

More Vessels.
The British cruiser Seylla and the American gunboat Eagle came into port today. This gives Port au Prince the protection of five foreign warships at the present time.

Order Reestablished.
Order this afternoon had been completely reestablished and the committee on public safety have issued a proclamation asking the people to be moderate so as to prevent foreign interference.

Want It Quiet.
In order to emphasize the necessity of this movement several of the leaders of last night's riots have been arrested and will be given a speedy trial by the authorities.

Simon Expected.
General Simon is expected at any time with his five thousand trained soldiers to enter Port au Prince which will ensure the peace and quiet of the country for a time at any rate.

Other Candidates.
The other candidates for the presidency, Pouchard, Menes and Nord Alexis, have made no move to dispute the choice of Legitime as president.

ARCHBOLD DETAILS THE TRUSTS' METHOD

New York, Dec. 2.—When the hearing in the government suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company, was resumed today John D. Archbold, vice president of the company, testified that the Standard had purchased the Pacific Coast Oil Company of California in 1900 for $7,000,000. After that its capitalization was increased by successive stages to seven million in 1904, when the name was changed to the Standard Oil Co. of California. Archbold said as far as he knew the Texas Oil Co. was not owned or controlled by the Standard.

BROTHER MISSING; THINK HE IS DEAD

Ben Flowers of Baraboo, Who Came to Visit His Brother in Beloit, Cannot Be Found Anywhere.

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 2.—Ben Flowers of Baraboo came here a week ago last night and was picked up on that night and given lodging overnight in the jail. The next day he gave the police the address of his brother, George Flowers of this city, and asked them to direct him to the place. He started out to go there, but since then he has not been seen and his brother says that he did not come to the house. It is feared that he wandered off and has perhaps been frozen to death. A diligent search has been carried on by the police and his brother, but no trace of him has been found.

Mrs. George Muchmore of this city fell down a trapdoor into the cellar of her home last evening and cut a gash in her head and bruised her shoulders quite badly.

ILLINOIS REACHES AN ADVANCED AGE

President James Monroe Signed Birth Certificate of State of Illinois in 1818.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2.—Four score and ten years ago today President James Monroe signed the birth certificate of Illinois as a state of the union and birthday celebrations were held today in this city. In Chicago and elsewhere throughout the state, special exercises were held in a number of schools and colleges.

The act enabling the people of Illinois to form a constitution and fixing the present northern boundary was passed by Congress April 18, 1818. The constitutional convention met in August and without great difficulty formulated the constitution.

Nathaniel Pope, at that time delegate in Congress from the Territory of Illinois, had an important part in securing affirmative action by Congress on the enabling act to Illinois, providing for Statehood. After an energetic struggle he succeeded in having incorporated in the bill a provision that the northern boundary of the state should be at its present location, giving to the state fourteen counties and the City of Chicago, as it now stands, which would have been within Wisconsin boundaries under the original provision. This was for the purpose, and so held by Mr. Pope, of preserving within one state a complete system of waterways which might be used in the future to connect Lake Michigan with the Mississippi river.

The first election of state officers under the new constitution was held Sept. 17, 1818, upon the assurance from Washington that the constitution formulated and approved by the president and the governor of the territory was the first general assembly met at Kaskaskia, which was the first capital, Oct. 5, 1818, and Governor-Elect Bond was inaugurated the following day.

During the early years of Statehood Illinois was distinctly a frontier state. Iowa was not organized until 1846, and until that time Illinois marked the westernmost boundary of organized civilization in the country.

CLARK PRACTICALLY SURE OF MINORITY LEADERSHIP

Preliminary Caucuses Are Now Being Held In The Nation's Capital.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Though the congressional mill will not begin to grind until next week, the usual preliminaries in the way of committee meetings and conferences are already well under way. Of these are particularly by far the most interesting attachments to the caucus of the democratic members of the House, which has been called for Saturday to choose a leader to succeed Representative John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, who retired from the minority leadership last spring upon his election to the Senate.

There is little room to doubt that the leadership will fall to Representative Champ Clark of Missouri. Mr. Williams and his friends are supporting the Missourian. There is little opposition to Mr. Clark, although the name of Representative Henry of Texas has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the leadership. Mr. Clark's colleague, Representative Do Armond, is understood to be opposed to Mr. Clark. Mr. Do Armond has aspired to the leadership for a number of years and his defeat for that honor by Mr. Williams was one of the causes of the enmity between the two which culminated in a personal encounter on the floor of the House last winter.

Talks with leading democratic members who have arrived in Washington indicate that Clark has virtually a sure thing of the leadership. It is claimed today by the Clark supporters that neither Do Armond nor Henry will develop any considerable strength in the caucus.

Champ Clark is probably the best-known figure on the democratic side and, without much question, the most popular one. For several reasons his elevation to the minority leadership is worthy of notice. There promise to be some phases of his leadership that will be in marked distinction to the leadership of John Sharp Williams. Many democrats believe, and in this number are some of the best friends of Mr. Williams, that Clark will make a more effective leader than did the noted member from Mississippi. Some think the Missouri representative will go into the leadership with practically the united support of the democrats of the House. He is accounted a better politician than Williams and less inclined to commit his personal likes and dislikes in the make-up of committees and other matters. He is expected by the democrats of the House who know him to sink his personal feelings as to members and to make up the committees on the democratic side with reference solely to personal fitness. One of the important commitments to which he will have to give attention is the Ways and Means committee, in view of the fact that revision of the tariff is supposed to be near at hand. It is not to be undertaken in the Sixtieth Congress but, as the Ways and Means Committee is made up at this session, it will be for the most part in the Sixty-first Congress. Mr. Clark is now the ranking minority member on the Ways and Means Committee. If he becomes the minority leader he will leave the committee himself and it is expected an act of courtesy will put in his place Do Armond of Missouri. Do Armond is a hard worker and a strong advocate of tariff revision.

Few members of the House on either side have a wider range of experience than has Mr. Clark. He is fifty-eight years old and a native of Kentucky. He was graduated from Kentucky University at Lexington and studied law at the Cincinnati Law School. In 1872 he was president of the first normal school established in West Virginia. After his experience there he removed to Missouri and became principal of the high school at Louisiana in that state. In 1876 he began the active practice of law and for several years served as city attorney of Louisiana. Then came a period of two years of service as editor of a country newspaper.

Mr. Clark's public career dates from 1880, in which year he was chosen a presidential elector and also a member of the Missouri legislature. He was elected to the Fifty-third Congress in 1892, and to the Fifty-fifth Congress in 1898, and has since been biennially re-elected from the Ninth Missouri district. He is an eloquent speaker and ready in debate, so more than one of his republican opponents have found out when they engaged him in a forensic tilt. Mr. Clark is supposed to be pretty well fixed financially, a large part of his wealth having been made in recent years on the lecture platform.

Recently the high prices demanded for butter was explained as being due to a combination of big butter men in the Chicago and High markets. Now come the 12th dealers who pronounce the story as a concoction of oligarchical interests to further their own interests. One Elgin butter man states:

first, the grades commonly used."

Stock.
Low priced stores appear to have the call just now. Buying is a trifle slow, waiting for the annual sales of the exhibits at the big stock show. Native butcher's trade is in brisk demand. Choice fleas cows and heifers were in demand and the prices are going up steadily in these two varieties. Canners and cutters sell well at strong figures.

Hogs.
Hog prices appear to fluctuate. The gain of five to ten cent increase over Tuesday's market dropped yesterday and was lost in the final closing figure. The receipts had nothing to do with this but the general demand.

Sheep.
Live mutton opened strong and active but strange to any dropped to fifteen cents on the closing Wednesday. However, it had the same experience on the opening this morning and will probably remain about level with the average market price.

Elgin Butter Story.
The stories of the butter trust are merely methods of boosting the oligarchical industry. Conditions are normal; there is an upward trend in the prices because of the usual small winter milk supply, and the fact that some dealers fear a shortage in the finer grades of butter and are buying heavily in an effort to prevent it gives the oleo dealers a chance to boom their product.

"Each of the concerns named as possible ring members claims to be shy on 'speculation' (the best grade of butter) and fears a big shortage about March 1. The heavy buying does not affect 'extras' and 'extra' milk to him this morning.

HOOF AND MOUTH

DISEASE SUBJECT

OF MUCH WIDE DISCUSSION JUST
AT PRESENT TIME.

RAVENEL SAYS KILL THEM

State Bacteriologist Gives This as His Opinion—Dr. A. P. Ravenel Writes
How to Treat Disease and What It Consists of.

Wisconsin stockbreeders and dairymen are much interested just at present in the question of the hoof and mouth disease, which has caused Governor Davidson to quarantine the state against importation of cattle or stock suffering from the disease. In other states, Dr. A. P. Ravenel, chief of the bacteriology department at the University, believes there is little danger of the spread of the foot and mouth disease among the cattle of Wisconsin, in spite of the closeness on account of the outbreak in Michigan. He commends the governor for taking every precaution and adds that the only way to kill the disease is to slaughter the animals affected. Medical treatment has been of little avail.

Directly contrary to this opinion given by the state bacteriologist is the following article written by Dr.
A. P. Ravenel of this city on medicine, its causes, its treatment and its effect. The article follows:

"The disease is now in six states of the union and spreading from the east westward. Herds are being slaughtered in Pennsylvania, New York and Michigan. Men spread the disease as well as cattle, but it is not thought necessary to slaughter men to prevent the spread of the disease; neither is it to slaughter cattle."

"The disease is rarely, if ever, fatal in man or cattle except the young that suck milk from diseased cows and small children fed on the milk of diseased cows. In them it is very fatal.
The disease runs its course in from 10 to 14 days. The animal in severe cases may lose the hoofs, but a new hoof will grow. So a man is liable to lose his fingers and toes, but new nails will grow again."

"Neither medical, surgical nor veterinary doctors tell us how long a man or animal should be isolated after he gets well, but it is my opinion that if either is fumigated with mercury they will not give the disease 10 days after they get well."

History of the Disease
"The disease has prevailed in the old world from time immemorial. It was first noticed on this continent in 1770. But its nature was not fully demonstrated until 1834. Dr. Her-wig first showed how contagious the disease is. He and two other men drank the milk of infected cows; all three had the disease, which showed itself in from 2 to 5 days."

"Later Dr. Kline found streptococci
in the yellow vesicles that appear in the mouth and between the fingers and toes. Dr. Cuyne found streptococci in the milk. They are also found in the blood, all the secretions and all the excretions and all are sources of contagion."

Symptoms
"The disease is ushered in with fever sometimes preceded by a chill.
The mouth is hot and dry. Vesicles appear on the lips, tongue and upper and back part of the mouth; these open, leaving small ulcers. A yellowish serum fluid issues, which is absorbed or finds its way into the stomach and between the fingers and toes, which is a violent infection, carrying the disease into the elementary canal, which soon appears between the fingers and toes and around the nails, on the breast and nipples of women. In cattle, swine, sheep and other animals the disease does not differ from that in man. The vesicles appear between and around the hoofs, and on the teats
and udder of cows."

Cause of the Disease
"The disease is caused by microbes that multiply very rapidly and there is good reason to believe they infect
the entire body, the clothing, the wool of sheep and the hair of animals.
Prof. Agnew tells us the disease may be carried in the clothing and in the air, and that the infection is contained in the saliva, urine and feces. But all agree that the vesicles and milk
are the chief sources of contagion.
Dr. Tyson tells us it may be taken by eating infected butter and cheese.
Milk made and others take it from milkling infected cows."

Treatment
"Internal treatment is by far the most important and is simple and effective. Sulphate of soda is the most efficient of all known remedies for a canker sore mouth. Take 20 grains in a half tumbler of milk or water three times a day. Half a dram or more may be taken if the disease is severe. Aromatic dilute sulphuric acid in 15 drop doses in water, 4 or 5 times, is very efficient. Salicylate acid in 20-grain doses in half tumbler of water is a good cure. The disinfectant the fever and dry heat in the mouth take 10 grains broader polish three times a day in water. Icthyol is a gentle remedy for eczema. It is 10 per cent sulphur; used both externally and internally. It is death to all microbes. Chlorate of potash, borax and pulverized alum are recommended by most medical writers. Sulphate of soda in 20 or 30-grain doses in water is a sure cure for many or beast, but it is not very palatable."

Local Remedies
"To relieve the throat and sore mouth use: acornmeal, 1 oz.; dextrin, 1 lb.; glycerine, 1 oz.; alcohol,
2 oz.; rose water or rain water,
1 gal. Apply to the throat and sore in the mouth with a small wand of cotton in the jaws of a steel probe. It may be applied three or four times a day. It will relieve the throat almost immediately. Apply to the sores between fingers and toes camphorphenique two or three times in 24 hours. Icthyol or tar and sulphur may be used for the same purpose, but the former is preferable."

"When the disease declines fumigate
the sleeping room with camphor.
The bedding and clothing should lay up loosely on chairs. In the morning put one ounce of camphor on a plate over an alcohol lamp with a little water; close all doors and windows. At bedtime all the microbes and vermin will be dead. Wash the body with tar soap. Milk made should wash the hands with tar soap in hot water immediately after milking. To prevent the family taking the disease throw a little sulphur from into the privy each day. If the family takes the disease they may spread it like a herd of cattle."

How to Stamp Out Disease

"The effects of medicine are the same on animals as on man. The same course is to be pursued. In animals the disease is in animals as in man. All the cattle exposed in a herd should be quarantined for one week and watched closely. If a cow shows signs of the disease take her to the stable, fumigate with camphor.
It will not hurt the animal if she breathes a little of the fumes. Give her an ounce of sulphate of soda in her drink twice a day for three days.
Wash the bag and teats with hot water and tar soap, after which apply camphor-phenique to the vesicles after each milking; syringe out between the teats with tar soap and water and around the tops of the udder.
Satur apply sulphate of zinc two grains a day. After which do up the feet with tar and sulphur.
Three 4 oz. of oil of turpentine, 2 oz.;
sulphur, 1 oz.; mix and apply once a day until the vesicles heal. The herd must be quarantined one week from the last exposure to a preventative measure of the herd that has been exposed. It will be well to fumigate each in a stable with camphor-phenique or benzobenzene. Myer may be added.
This is a good preventative of typhoid fever and tuberculosis; is the fruit infection of the animals. Let the animals inhale the vapor. Sprinkle sulphate of iron on the manure of the infected animals and keep fowls and swine away."

To Cure Swine
"To cure swine give them a dose of copra, sulphate of iron or sulphate of soda in their food and they will soon be well; then fumigate the pen, keeping fowls away."

"If the dog gets the disease give him a teaspoonful of sulphur in a pint of milk."
"A little copra in their drink cures fowls. Then fumigate the coop with camphor. It will kill the lice and mites."

To Stamp Out Disease in Sheep
"It is no small job to stamp out the disease in sheep because the wool furnishes an abode for countless millions of bacilli. If the weather is warm the first step is to shear the sheep. Expose the wool to hot steam as soon as it is off the sheep. Give the sheep a warm silicate of soda bath, 2 drachms of silicate of soda to 1 gallon of water. The same medicine may be given internally in his drink in tea-spoon doses twice a day. Some disinfectant ought to be used in the sheep yard.

Epizootic Aphthae in Horses
"Horses are liable to take the dis-treatment for horses is the same as for man and cattle. The average dose should be doubled. The dose for an ox or horse is from 8 to 10 times as large as for man, and for sheep not larger than the man."

MONROE TAX WILL

BE TWO PER CENT

City Will Raise $63,523—$37,532 Will Go to State, County, and School Taxes.

Monroe, Wis., Dec. 3.—The tax rate in Monroe will be 2 per cent on all assessed property in the city. The city will raise $63,523 this year, $37,532 of which will go for the state, county and school taxes. Last year the rate was $1.74 on every $100 in the city and about $55,000 was raised. The increase in the rate this year is due to the $8,000 shortage in the levy last year owing to a misstatement of the state and county tax, the budget order fixed before the county board met.
The state and county tax will also be $1,500 more this year than it was last.
The Monroe Telephone company was denied damages by Judge George Grinn of Jefferson in a suit brought against ex-Mayor Willis Ludlow and certain members of a former council for cutting down a telephone pole. The suit was brought on the grounds that the ex-mayor and aldermen were not acting in their official capacity when they ordered the pole cut down but as private individuals. The suit will be appealed to the supreme court.

Mrs. Augusta Miller, plaintiff, won her suit against the Sovereign camp of the Woodmen of the World for $1, 000, the face value of a policy carried by her son Otto Miller, who has been missing seven years. The defense contended that sufficient search had not been made for the holder of the policy to give the beneficiary claim to the principal while the plaintiff set up the claim that all rumors regarding Mr.
Miller had been traced and laid stress on the fact he was a dutiful son and evident of a sudden to verify to his mother and intended wife, M. O.

French Play From Pen of Henri Bernstein Offers Much Food For Reflection.

"The Thief," a play from the pen of the French author, Henri Bernstein, was presented last evening at the Myers theatre by a capable company.
The theme of the play is the thefts of a young wife, who fearing to lose her husband's love steals from her friend in order that she may have money to dress well. After the son of La Guardia, from whose villa the money has been stolen, has been accused of the theft and has falsely confessed in order to save the woman he thinks he loves, Aristide-Louis, the young wife who has committed the theft, confesses that she is the real thief.

The climax in the rising action occurs in the second act when Richard Voykin, the husband, begins to suspect his wife and finally forces a confession from her. The entire act is a strong, intense scene and David Procter and Grace Benham in the two leading roles deserve credit for the interpretation which they gave. The husband gradually aroused suspicion and after consideration when he find out he was to be and the wife's humiliation in her confession were each portrayed in a manner which won for the actors a number of curtain calls.

Wynne Birch as the love-lorn boy also played his part very well and the entire company was good.

Director D. M. Evans yesterday announced to the gymnasium classes that he will at once begin to give instruc-of the four classes in the school will first be picked and shortly after this a contest will be held at which the champions of the different classes of wrestlers will be determined.

The physical director intends to train on the whole, seven different classes of wrestlers, determined by the weight of the men. They will be:
bantamweights, 115 pounds and under;
special, 125 pounds; lightweight, 135
pounds; welterweights, 145 pounds;
middleweights, 155 pounds;
heavyweights, 175 pounds; and all above these will be classed as

There is plenty of material in the college now to select teams from each shown such an interest that it is bound to be a success. The physical director has had many years experience in training wrestlers and has trained many of the college champions

BIRD CONSERVATION IS THE ONLY SUBJECT

Audubon Workers Enlist to Save the Nation's Resources—Consensus of Birds to be Made.

New York, Dec. 3.—To have the crops, woods and waters of America for future Americans by preserving the birds, without whose services few growing things will survive on the continent, is the object of a special campaign that was begun in this city today. At the request of the leaders of the movement at Washington, the National Association of Audubon Societies, has enlisted in the general conservation crusade, with all its working forces that have for years labored to this end. As a first step to show the rapid decline in the feathered resources of the nation, a census of the game and forest birds of the entire country has today been projected by the association.

Five of the leading ornithologists and workers in the Audubon association were today selected as a committee to represent the important interests of bird protection in co-operation with the other elements in the national conservation organization. With William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, there will serve on this committee Edward Howe Forbush, who is in charge of the association's New England department, T. Gilbert Pearson, the head of its office in the South, Frank M. Chapman, a leader in Audubon field work, and Dr. T. S. Palmer who is prominent in the government biological survey, the Department of Agriculture as well as an active member of the association. With the assistance of the authorities at Washington this committee hopes to soon be ready to show the people of the United States some striking evidence of the effect of bird hatchery upon their other resources.

To take a complete census of the game and forest birds over every square mile of every section of this country is regarded here as one of the hardest tasks which the Audubon workers have ever undertaken in their long history of labors to preserve the national bird life. Thousands of detailed question blanks are to be sent to representatives and friends of the association the country over, as well as to every known warden, ornithologist and official who is in touch with local conditions. On the expert observations of this small army of bird lovers and experts a comparative census will be based which the Audubon officials feel sure will show an appalling decrease in nature's feathered forces that insure life to all crops and trees.

Forest fires such as devastated the country this fall were declared today by the Audubon authorities in this city to be responsible for wholesale destruction to America's bird races. For every tree consumed by the flames, homes were lost to breeding birds they declared, while millions of the migratory flocks perished because of the conflagration. It is known that whole regiments of the smaller species have in many cases been confused and lost in the smoke clouds of the burning forests.

"When we have proven by this way the tremendous and growing destruction of bird life, which is now seriously threatening the crops and general material welfare of every American, we believe the whole country will come to support our work," said William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at its headquarters, 311 Broadway, today. "It is high time that the people of this country were made to realize the prime economic importance of our efforts to protect the nation's bird resources. This I feel sure the proposed census will accomplish. Beyond the share in the conservation movement which we have undertaken, we shall continue to push our other essential lines of work just as far as the very necessary help of patriotic citizens will permit."

HOW TURKS FIGHT A SERIOUS FIRE TODAY

Interesting Account of the Turkish College Boys at a Conflagration.

In the following interesting description of how the Turkish college boys fight fires in the land of Moslem the true insight into the country of Mahomet is found. The description is sent out by the missionary society and is most interesting. "Not long ago a fire broke out in the city of Marsovan, Turkey, the home of Anatolia College, a fine educational institution for boys supported by the American Board. The difference in discipline and efficiency between the native fire department and the voluntary work of the students made a deep impression upon those who witnessed the conflagration. When the alarm sounded, at two o'clock in the morning, the Turkish firemen started with a small hand machine across the city, making a terrible noise with blowing trumpets. Somewhat later the boys from Anatolia College set out with a little old engine and an outfit of buckets, used on the mission premises. It was a slow process to reach the scene over pitching streets and a wide cobble stone, but the boys were there first, doing its work before the city pump had found connections. After an hour's fight the flames were extinguished, a neighboring mosque was saved and a general conflagration avoided. Then the boys gathered up their tackle, gave three lusty cheers for Anatolia, and trotted home to bed in martial order. All that time the city engine lay useless, while the municipal firemen ran around the streets borrowing tins and tubs to carry water to their engine, having neglected to provide buckets. If a river had been flowing before the building they could have done nothing but dip water with their hands. The next morning people in the market place talked in excited tones about the student brigade. They said, 'We thought people had to have engines to put out fires, but we see it is done with tin buckets.' They were loud in their praise of the discipline and order maintained by the students, and of the splendid way they met an emergency. There are more serious emergencies than fires in the land of the sultan just at present, and our American Christian schools and colleges are turning out the right sort of young men to meet them. American friendship shown to Turkey at this crisis in her history is likely to bring as rich rewards as it has in Japan. In what better way can we express this friendship than by supporting colleges like Anatolia?"

ONE MILLION A YEAR SPENT BY COUNT BONI

So Declares Princess de Sagan's Counsel—Her Former Husband Raked
For and Aft.

Paris, Dec. 3.—M. Clemenceau, counsel for Princess de Sagan, formerly Anna Gould, made a most sensational address Wednesday when the suit brought by Count Boni de Castellane, former husband of the princess, for the custody of his three children, was resumed.

Counsel for the princess raked the count fore and aft when he reached the subject of the fashion in which he had dissipated his wife's fortune, spending at the rate of $1,000,000 a year for 11 years. M. Clemenceau revealed the exact terms of the settlement his client offered to make at the time of her divorce. These the count refused, on the ground that they were insufficient, and in so doing, said counsel, he proved himself eligible for an insane asylum. These terms were $200,000 cash, or an income of $30,000 a year, this income to be increased when the estate of his former wife was out of the hands of the trustees, she to take over all the debts then pending.

M. Clemenceau took up one by one the accusations made against the princess by the count regarding her travels in Italy with de Sagan before their marriage. It should be remembered, the lawyer declared, that the princess was not a young girl traveling with her fiancé, but a divorced woman in the company of the man she was going to marry. Furthermore, she is an American, M. Clemenceau said. "Conduct that would appear to be out of the ordinary in France," he said, "is perfectly proper on the other side of the ocean."

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 3.—Nebraska went down to a decisive defeat on the football field Wednesday at the hands of the Carlisle Indians, the final score being, Carlisle, 37; Nebraska, 0. "The Indians were fast and strong and at no time after the game was over in motion was there any possibility of a victory for Nebraska or any serious doubt of the result. The local eleven was outwitted four pounds to the man, and certainly outplayed in a much larger proportion."

EXTRAVAGANT WASTE

The biennial report of the secretary of state contains the following paragraph:

"Over one hundred tons of waste paper were sold by the superintendent of public property during the fiscal years of 1907 and 1908. A large portion of the waste paper consisted of old pamphlets, books and other public documents that were condemned and ordered sold under authority of law."

If he had added that another hundred tons was scattered over the state and disposed of in waste baskets, the people would understand in a measure what became of the $271,000 spent for state printing, during the past two years.

The report further states that: "Members of the legislature have, in some cases, refused to accept boxes of miscellaneous documents sent out by the superintendent of public property even after the freight had been prepaid by the state. Other instances have occurred where such boxes have remained unopened or the contents left practically undisturbed."

State as well as government printing is run on that free and easy basis described by that old truism, "What's everybody's business is nobody's business." Every official who seeks notoriety rushes to the public printer and files an order for anything he wants, and the state pays the freight.

Up in the sixth district is an enthusiastic German who spent his first winter in Washington at the last session of congress. His only opportunity to speak before the house was when he clipped in during a debate, but this slight recognition so pleased him, that he had the fragments compiled in pamphlet form, and franked over the country.

Hundreds of tons of this sort of literature are scattered over the country every year, printed and distributed at public expense, and the contents never read except by the author. These are the small rat-holes which sap public treasures, and the public documents which flood the country today represent an extravagant waste of money.

If the government will close up its print shop, and abolish the franking privilege, results will show a saving of 50 per cent in this department, and if the state will cut its printing appropriation in half, the amount will be liberal, with enough waste paper left for a good bonfire every year.

MORE PRACTICAL EDUCATION

"Seven-eighths of the boys and girls of the United States leave school and go to work before their 15th birthday."

"For this seven-eighths of the ordinary American high school has absolutely nothing to offer in the way of useful training."

"The entire American school system for the last century has been based on discrimination against all but a few of its pupils, adapting its studies exclusively to the professional and leisure classes."

These terse paragraphs are from an interview with Superintendent Cooley of the Chicago schools, and introduce a plan which he made for the support of a system of continuation schools which he is attempting to establish for the benefit of the masses.

Supt. Cooley has long enjoyed the reputation of being a practical educator. He has met with much opposition from colleagues in the same line of work, but the people are with him, and success is crowning persistent and intelligent effort. Speaking of the new departure he says:

"This is what has been started this fall in Chicago, and our start, I think, marks a turning point in school affairs hereabouts. Four evening schools now are doing the 'continuation' work exclusively. The Hayne school, an old building at Cass and Illinois streets, has been given up entirely to commercial classes, and here we are making the beginning of a great expansion towards commercial schools."

"Here we are teaching the boys practical business arithmetic, business correspondence, business law, accounting, stenography, and other things that they need directly in their work. The town doesn't really know about the school just yet. Only 118 are attending the classes now, but it is growing, and will grow rapidly."

"We will hold classes up there any time the employers will let their people attend them. I'd like to see these schools run seven days a week. The same as they are in Germany. I hardly think we could follow the plan in America, but I'd like to see it done. We have the Laue, the Lake, and the Crane schools—one in each division of the city. These offer machine shop and foundry work, mechanical and architectural drawing, and the like. The Laue school also has commercial classes similar to those at the Hayne. 'It is hardly fair, though, to say that our 'continuation' work, even as limited as it is now, is confined to these four high schools. It is being done in evening classes all over the city."

"At the present time the evening schools of Chicago enroll about 18,000 pupils. Half of these are foreigners, receiving instruction in the English language. The other half are engaged in work that may fitly be called 'continuation' work."

"For the future we are hoping for some big changes. They know how to do these things in Germany. There the first eight years is spent in acquiring simply a general education similar to what we give. When the boy is 14, however, the government turns all its machinery toward making him a practical success. If he is unable to carry his work further in the elementary schools he can follow up his new trade in the 'continuation' schools."

"This is the kind of talk and the kind of work that is practical. It should be heartily endorsed by the press of the country in the interests of the great army of children who are permitted to go out into life with practically no education."

An effort has been made to have it appear that President-elect Taft and Speaker Cannon are not agreed on tariff revision, and that the speaker will attempt to block legislation in this direction. There is no occasion for worry. The republicanism of both gentlemen, no one will question, and while the tariff problem will require time to solve, it will be settled finally in the interests of the people.

The good people of Batavia, Illinois, have issued a proclamation calling for united prayers for the mayor of Elgin, and the chief executive of the latter city comes back with a request that Elgin people supplicate the throne of grace for wicked Batavia. This seems to be a praying match between the two cities, and results should be beneficial to both.

The revolution now going on in Haiti is one of the periodical outbreaks for which the little republic is noted, and demonstrates the fact that the coffee and negro population is not capable of self-government. The time will doubtless come, and may come soon, when the island will be annexed to the United States, and placed on a par with Porto Rico.

Harry Thaw's money is now being spent to determine whether he will reside in New York or Pennsylvania, an honor to which both states aspire. He is as crazy as ever with no hope of recovery until his bank account gives out.

Chicago women are working for suffrage and 100 clubs have united in an active campaign. Among the posters displayed on billboards yesterday was one containing the following sentiment:

"For the long workday,
And the taxes we pay,
And the laws we obey,
We want something to say."

Womanly Logic.
"Never," groaned the picture dealer, "never try to argue a woman into believing that she ought to pay a bill when she thinks otherwise. I tried it this morning—presented a bill for some stuff ordered two months ago. Here was the irrefutable logic:

"I never ordered any pictures."
"If I did you never delivered them."
"If I did I never got them."
"If I did I paid for them."
"If I didn't, I must have had some good reason for it."
"And if I had, of course, I won't pay."—Wasp.

A Terrible Threat.
"You say your titled son-in-law holds threats over you?"
"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "He has us where we can't give him any argument at all. Mother and the girls say we must yield for the sake of the family honor."

"Is there—or a skeleton in the closet?"
"Not at all. He simply announces that unless he has his own way he'll get naturalized and be a plain American citizen."

THE CHILDREN OF BELGRADE.

Modern history has its "children's crusade"—the crusade of the children of Belgrade.

The children's crusade of the middle ages was warlike for the recovery of the holy sepulchre; the children's crusade at Belgrade was against war. Recently Austria annexed Bosnia and Herzegovina. The jingo patriots of Serbia sent up a howl for war. Such a war meant the ruin of Serbia. The crown prince, the most dissolute prince in Europe, celebrated the war spirit by getting drunk and lashing people in the streets with his whip.

A hideous blood demand filled Belgrade. "The people there have learned they have little to gain by political changes, and they are tired of being killed to please princes."

It was the women who acted. "They would not let their husbands be butchered without protest, but knew the swashbucklers would not hesitate to kill them also if they marched."

But the children! Soldiers would not dare slaughter the children. And so the boys and girls were organized and drilled. Banners were made and lines of march outlined.

On the very day when the crown prince made his grand stand ultimatum, saying to the minister, "Remember you speak from 300,000 bayonets!"—on that very day the children of Belgrade marched.

"They came from all directions into the great square, singing and carrying banners bearing the legend:

"Please Save Our Pups For Their Homes."

When the great palace square was full the singing ceased, and at a signal the shrill voices of the children shouted in unison:

"O king, let us have peace! Do not send our fathers to war!"

King Peter, who favors peace, but struggled with the hot passions of the war party, appeared at an upper window and graciously greeted the children.

The result?

In that hour THE WAR SPIRIT OF SERBIA WAS CRUSHED. It has not been able to raise its head again.

All of which true and pretty story illustrates the Scripture that "out of the mouths of babes and sucklings is ordained the strength to still the avenger."

9-10 Of The Pain In Dentistry Is Unnecessary

There is always the great fear of pain that keeps people from having their teeth attended to—and still the longer they put it off, the more pain and expense they will be caused.

Around the tooth on all sides, there are nerves, and these I treat with a harmless application which deadens the pain for a period of 15 minutes. I have used this method for about 15 years, and know that 9-10 of the pain is not felt.

If you have been "going" to have your teeth fixed, call the very next time you go by, and let me tell you more about my methods.

GALBRAITHS HONORED AT STOCK EXHIBITS

Former Importing Horse Firm That Recently Removed to De Kalb Carries Off Prizes.

While Janesville can not claim the prestige of being the home of the Galbraiths, they can take much credit and pride in the fact that two of their fine Clydesdales carried off premier honors at the stock show in Chicago yesterday. Owing to the state law, passed by the last legislature, the Galbraiths were forced to remove their stables to De Kalb, Ill., in order to compete with outside importing firms. The loss in Janesville and due to a law which was not designed to effect legitimate traders but do away with cheap concerns that cheated the farmers. Unfortunately it was too far reaching and Wisconsin lost the Galbraiths, for many years one of the leading importers of Clydesdales and other fancy breeds of stock. At the showing for Clydesdales yesterday, Baroness Voucher owned by the Galbraiths carried off the Clyde championship honors and their mare, Ladylike, was awarded the champion mare ribbon of the class. Among the competitors for these honors were the two fine horses of George Ade, the playwright who had Baroness Voucher and Ladylike entered for competition. Another Wisconsin man who carried off signal honors yesterday was George McKerrrow, president of the Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture. He had first ribbon for a Shropshire flock of sheep, first ribbons for yearling ewes and first and second and third ribbons for Shropshire rams. Mr. McKerrrow has exhibited all the big shows with signal success during the past year. Another feature that is interesting to visitors to Chicago at this time is the National Dairy Show at the Coliseum. One particular feature found in the model kitchen conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth O. Hill, when it will be remembered conducted a cooking school here several years ago.

Many Janesville people have visited the show during the past week and report them very fine. A large party went down yesterday and others plan to go down on Saturday. Other Wisconsin breeders fared well as prize-winners at the International Live Stock show today. Among the prize awards is a first prize for Hereford bull, 2 years old and under 3, to John C. Robinson & Son of Evansville.

The resolution of the village board accepting the addition as plat is annexed to the plat which has been filed.

The lots are numbered from one to five and are laid out on land which is owned by the parties signing their names to the plat.

JACKASS JOKE CASE CALLED FOR TRIAL

But Attorneys Representing Tom Cunningham of Evansville Object to Justice's Return.

In municipal court this afternoon the case of the State vs. Thomas Cunningham of Evansville was called for trial, and it was expected that a jury would be drawn. However, the defendant's attorneys, William Smith and M. O. Monat, took exception to the return made by the justice of the peace at Evansville and there was some prospect that technicalities might delay and complicate the proceedings. The defendant is charged with assaulting 18-year-old Mark Webb with a whistle-tree and breaking two of the latter's ribs when the latter called attention to the breaking of a jackass, the first day of the Evansville fair, and demanded of Cunningham: "Why don't you speak to your brother?"

STRAY SHOT STRUCK CHILD IN FOREHEAD

Little Link Child Hit While Playing on North Bluff Street—Only Skin Wound Inflicted.

Saturday, one of the children of Mrs. E. Link, who lives north of the gas house on North Bluff street, was struck in the forehead by a stray shot evidently from some hunter's gun. Only a skin wound was inflicted, the damage being slight. The child was playing in the street and suddenly fell something struck him which gave him considerable pain. Running indoors, it was discovered that he had been struck by a shot and he was immediately taken to Dr. Merrill's office where the shot was removed. The child did not know from which direction the shot came nor is it known who the shooters were. It is also remarkable that only one shot struck the child. The hunter fired the shot was evidently breaking the law with regard to shooting in the city as the accident occurred inside the city limits.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

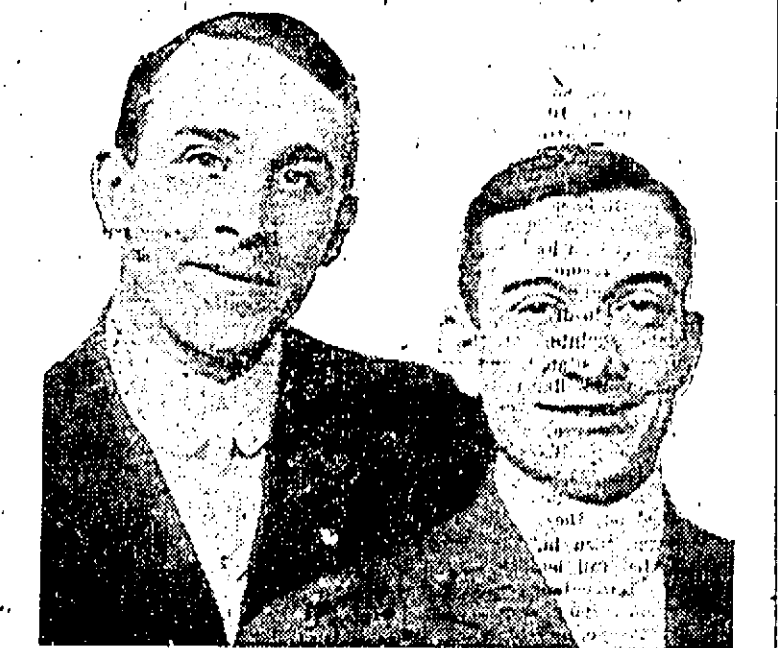

Story of "The Top of the World." Well, you see, Prince Thynette, the good fairy, was just passing when Malda said: "I wish I could go out alone, I wish I did not have to go to bed early, I wish I was grown up." And Thynette grabbed the little girl in his arms and carried her swiftly to the top of the world where Santa Claus has his workshop.

Malda was ten years old and lived in an apartment house in New York City. She was very unhappy because she could not go out unaccompanied and because her papa and mama told her that she could not do anything and a couple of hearts. Malda was philanthropic and favored the two funny toys, and soon to her great delight, they were hopping about and making love to the little girl as only toys can do. But Malda was not satisfied, and wished to grow up and told Kris-Kringle so.

"Dear child," said the kind old man, "you can do this by standing with your back to the North Pole and wishing for it. If you go to this wishing pole you can grow up instantly by the mere expression of a wish."

It was a hard trip and so far away that little Malda wept bitterly because

It is a wonderful shop, the palace of Kris-Kringle, and full of wonderful toys all of which came to life at the expression of a wish. Two very interesting toys, The Candy Kid and Jack-in-the-Box, made friends with her at once. Being only toys and full of malapropisms and egg-words they could not play with her until she wished them legs and arms

Old Jack Frost, who was the Premier of the City of Illinois, ruled over by Queen Aurora Borealis, sent a bitter cold wind to frustrate them, but Morse merely turned on the nozzle of the "Can of Climate" and the whole party merrily sang:—"Old Jack Frost, Old Jack Frost, Met a can of climate and his job was lost."

RATIONAL CURE FOR ECZEMA

No More Dealing the Stomach—Cure the Skin Through the Skin.

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash it out and clean it and then the skin cures itself. You do not take blood medicine to cure a fostered wound.

The best skin specialists today are agreed that the only way to cure the skin is through the skin.

The fact that eczema is a skin disease and not a blood disease is evident from statistics which show that nearly all eczema sufferers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. If the eczema patients were really suffering from an inward malady, the entire body and not only the skin would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the reality of a true skin cure by using oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

This liquid attacks the disease germs, numbing them while building up the healthy tissue of the skin. We have now handled this meritorious and thoroughly scientific remedy for so long and have seen its reliable result so many times that we freely express our confidence.

PU-YI IS CROWNED

Little Child Mounts Dragon Throne of China.

OFFICIAL NAME HSUAN TUNG

Ceremonies Are Brief But Exceedingly Imposing and Are Followed by an Imperial Edict Granting Amnesty—Celebration at Washington.

Peking, Dec. 3.—Under the name of Hsuan Tung, the three-year-old son of Prince Chun, Pu-Yi, mounted the ancient Dragon throne of China Wednesday and was formally crowned emperor.

While the ceremonies were brief, owing to the period of mourning following the death of Emperor Kuang-Hsu and the dowager empress a fortnight ago, they were exceedingly imposing. Princes of the royal blood and officials of the highest rank kowtowed humbly before the infant emperor, while plumed eunuchs, brought to the palace as witnesses, according to custom, rubbed noses at the feet of the baby who, by the royal edict, has become the greatest personage in the Flowery Kingdom.

Amnesty Is Proclaimed.
Following the ceremony an imperial edict proclaiming the ascension was issued. This communication contains also a grant of amnesty. The date upon which the new emperor will receive the members of the diplomatic corps will be fixed later.

The function began by the princes of the imperial family and the high officials of the empire kowtowing to the memorial tablets of their late majesties. After this they all kowtowed in turn to Pu-Yi. Pu-Yi then offered a sacrifice before the tablets of the emperor and the dowager empress.

After this he was relieved of his dress of mourning and clad with much care in a diminutive imperial garment embroidered with the imperial dragon. His nurses performed this duty with great attention and care. Thus arrayed, the toddling emperor ascended the throne amid a fanfare of drums, bells, and firecrackers.

Celebration in Washington.
Washington, Dec. 3.—Interrupting the period of mourning over the death of the late emperor and dowager empress, the Chinese legation Wednesday celebrated the accession to the throne of the new emperor, Hsuan Tung. Similar ceremonies were held at all the Chinese embassies and legations throughout the world.

The guests of honor of the reception were, Tse, Shou Yi, the official Chinese ambassador, and Prince Taotai, who accompanied the ambassador. They met the members of the diplomatic corps for the first time.

MINING CONGRESS OPENS.

Most Important Session of Body Begins in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 3.—What is expected to prove the most important convention ever held by the American Mining congress opened in this city Wednesday. Men famous in the mining and business world are present, while during the next three days cabinet officers, 16 governors, senators, congressmen and many state legislators will come here to participate.

A message from President-elect Taft will be read some time during the convention and his views concerning the relations of the United States government and mining industry are awaited as one of the vital features of the meeting.

While the sessions Wednesday were of a routine nature there was considerable interesting work accomplished. It was clearly shown that within 60 days congress will take steps to establish a bureau of mines in the department of the interior, that a plan will be advanced to protect the public from mining frauds, that renewed efforts will be made to prevent the great sacrifice of human life in our coal mines, and that necessary federal and state legislation will be recommended with a request that the nation and state cooperate for the betterment of the mining industry.

Prague Is Under Martial Law.

Prague, Austria, Dec. 3.—Martial law was proclaimed in this city Wednesday. Killed by His Brother-in-Law.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 3.—B. M. O'Hear, a prominent citizen, was shot and killed Wednesday at Carbon Hill, Ala., by J. T. Wakefield, his brother-in-law. The affair is said to have resulted from family troubles.

INTO THE PRIMITIVE

BY ROBERT AMES BENNET
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

CHAPTER I. Wave-Tossed and Castaway.

THE beginning was at Cape Town, when Blake and Winthrop boarded the steamer as fellow passengers with Lady Dayroo and her party.

This was a week after Winthrop had arrived on the tramp steamer from India, and her ladyship had explained to Miss Leslie that it was as well for her not to be too hasty in accepting his attentions. "To be sure, he was an Englishman, his dress and manners were impeccable, and he was in the prime of ripened youth. Yet Lady Dayroo was too conscientious a chaperon to be fully satisfied with her countryman's bare assertion that he was engaged on a diplomatic mission requiring residence regarding his identity. She did not see why this should prevent him from confiding in her.

Notwithstanding this, Winthrop came aboard ship virtually as a member of her ladyship's party. He was so quick, so thoughtful of her comfort, and paid so much more attention to her than to Miss Leslie, that her ladyship had decided to tolerate him, even before Blake became a factor in the situation.

From the moment he crossed the gangway the American engineer entered upon a daily routine of drinking and gambling, varied only by attempts to strike up an off-hand acquaintance with Miss Leslie. This was Winthrop's opportunity, and his clever frustration of what Lady Dayroo termed "that low bouncer's impudence" served to install him in the good graces of her ladyship as well as in the favor of the American heiress.

Such, at least, was what Winthrop intimated to the persistent engineer with a superciliousness of tone and manner that would have stung even a British lackey to resentment. To Blake it was supremely galling. He could not rejoin in kind, and the slightest attempt at physical retort would have meant iron and confinement. It was a British ship, behind Winthrop was Lady Dayroo; behind her ladyship, as a matter of course, was all the despotic authority of the captain. In the circumstances, it was not surprising that the American drank heavier after each successive goading.

Meantime the ship, having touched at Port Natal, steamed on up the east coast, into the Mozambique channel.

On the day of the cyclone, Blake had withdrawn into his stateroom with a number of bottles, and throughout that fearful afternoon was blissfully unconscious of the danger. Even when the steamer went on the reef, he was only partially roused by the shock.

He took a long pull from a quart flask of whiskey, placed the flask with great care in his hip pocket, and lurched out through the open doorway. There he reeled headlong against the mate, who had rushed below with three of the crew to bring up Miss Leslie. The mate cursed him virulently, and in the same breath ordered two of the men to fetch him up on deck.

The sea was breaking over the steamer in torrents; but between waves Blake was dragged across to the side and flung over into the bottom of the one remaining boat.

He served as a cushion to break the fall of Miss Leslie, who was tossed in after him. At the same time, Winthrop, frantic with fear, scrambled into the bows and cut loose. One of the sailors leaped, but fell short and went down within arm's length of Miss Leslie.

She and Winthrop saw the steamer slip from the reef and sink back into deep water, carrying down in the vortex the mate and the few remaining sailors. After that all was chaos to them. They were driven ashore before the terrific gusts of the cyclone, blinded by the stinging spindrift and all else but the hell of breakers and coral reefs in whose midst they swirled so dizzily. And through it all Blake lay huddled on the bottom boards gurgling blithely of spicy zephyrs and swaying hammocks.

There came the seemingly final moment when the boat went spinning stern over prow.

Half-conscious, Blake opened his eyes and stared solemnly about him. He was given little time to take his bearings. A smother of broken surf came swooping up from one of the great breakers, to roll him over and scrape him a little farther up the muddy shore. There the flood deposited him for a moment, until it could gather force to sweep back and drag him down again toward the roaring sea that had cast him up.

Blake objected—not to the danger of being drowned, but to interference with his repose. He had reached the obstinate stage. He granted a protest. Again the flood seethed up the shore, and rolled him away from the danger.

This was too much! He set his jaw, turned over, and staggered to his feet. Instantly one of the terrific wind-blasts struck his broad back and sent him spinning for yards. He brought up in a shallow pool, beside a hummock.

Under the lee of the knoll lay Winthrop and Miss Leslie. Though conscious, both were dragged and bruised and beaten to exhaustion. They were together because they had come ashore together. When the boat capsized, Miss Leslie had been flung against the Englishman, and they had held fast to each other with the desperate clutch of drowning persons. Neither of them ever recalled how they gained the shelter of the hummock.

Blake, sitting waist-deep in the pool, blinked at them blearily with his pale blue eyes, and produced the quart flask, still a third full of whiskey. "I shay, fronds," he observed, "ha' one on me. Won' coa' you shent—notta re' shent?"

"You fuddled lot!" shouted Winthrop. "Come out of that pool."

"Wassam'ar pool? Poof's a'li!" "The Englishman squinted through the driving acid at the intoxicated man with an anxious frown. In all probability he felt no commiseration for the American; but it was no light matter to be flung up bareheaded on the most unwholesome and savage stretch of the Mozambique coast, and Blake might be able to help them out of their predicament. To leave him in the pool was therefore not to be thought of. So soon as he had drained his bottle, he would lie down, and that would be the end of him. As any attempt to move him forcibly was out of the question, the situation demanded that Winthrop justify his intimations of diplomatic training. After considering the problem for several minutes, he met it in a way that proved he was at least not lacking in shrewdness and tact.

"See here, Blake," he called, in another lull between the shrieking gusts, "the lady is fatigued. You're too much of a gentleman to ask her to come over there."

It required some moments for this to penetrate Blake's fuddled brain. After a futile attempt to gain his feet, he crawled out of the pool on all fours, and, with tears in his eyes, pressed his flask upon Miss Leslie. She shrank away from him, shuddering, and drew herself up in a huddle of flaccid limbs and limp garments. Winthrop, however, not only accepted the flask, but came near to draining it.

Blake squinted at the diminished contents, hesitated, and cast a glance of maudlin gallantry at Miss Leslie. She lay curled, closer than before, in a drugged heap. Her posture suggested sleep. Blake stared at her, the flask extended waveringly before him. Then he brought it to his lips, and drained out the last drop.

"Time turn in," he mumbled, and sprawled full length in the brackish ooze. Immediately he fell into a drunken stupor.

Winthrop, invigorated by the liquor, rose to his knees, and peered around. It was impossible to face the acid and spindrift from the furious sea; but to leeward he caught a glimpse of a marsh flooded with salt water, its reedy vegetation beaten flat by the storm. He himself was beaten down by a terrific gust. Panting and trembling, he waited for the wind to lull, in hope that he might obtain a clearer view of his surroundings. Before he again dared rise to his feet, darkness swept down with tropical suddenness and blurred out everything.

Sleeping the Sleep of the Just and the Drunkard.

The effect of the whiskey soon passed, and Winthrop huddled between his companions, drenched and exhausted. Though he could hear Miss Leslie moaning, he was too miserable himself to inquire whether he could do anything for her.

Presently he became aware that the wind was falling. The center of the cyclone had passed before the ship struck, and they were now in the outermost circle of the vast whirlwind. With the consciousness of this change for the better, Winthrop's fevered nerves relaxed and he fell into a heavy sleep.

Very Old Painting.

What is believed to be the oldest European painting in existence has been found in Crete by the Italian archaeological mission. It is on a sarcophagus, and is supposed to have been produced about 2500 B. C.

Nothing New.

Fashion is ever changing, but it must be confessed that all the dresses we "create" are merely variations, improvements, or transformations of models worn in other days.—Mode.

Stop Dyspepsia.

The one and only way you can do this, is with Kodol, and Kodol does it promptly.

The feeling of languor, the dull headache, the sensation of fullness, pains and tenderness in the region of the stomach, flatulence, belching and vomiting, the thousand and one symptoms of indigestion or other stomach trouble, of which most of us know more or less, unfit both body and mind for hard work or continuous application.

You wouldn't suffer like that if you knew a certain remedy, would you? Yes, such a remedy exists. Kodol quickly relieves all these symptoms, and by giving the stomach entire rest, speedily cures the disease itself.

Irregular hours, mild indisposition, excessive use of tobacco, hasty eating or overindulgence in a favorite dish, frequently produce an unpleasant, though not lasting result, as the most serious of chronic cases.

If these temporary sufferers realized that Kodol for Dyspepsia offered sure and almost immediate relief, how many would neglect to keep it constantly in the house.

You can go about your business and disregard a pain in any other part of the body. But stomach trouble prostrates. The stomach supplies the entire system. If it fails to perform its task, these supplies are cut off—and we cannot live without food.

We know all this, but haven't we fallen into the error of assuming that, once swallowed, food has accomplished the purpose for which it was eaten? It hasn't, by any means. Until it is properly digested, the system cannot assimilate it.

It remains in the stomach until it decomposes, and night far better, not have been eaten at all. Kodol digests this food without aid from the stomach, and digests it as well as the stomach itself could do the work.

Through its aid, the food you have eaten is reduced to a form, in which the system can assimilate it and the body is built up, while the tired stomach rests.

The trouble with dyspepsia is, that they're starving. They have eaten, but their food is undigested, and consequently does them no good. Kodol not only relieves the patient's sufferings in such cases, but also removes the cause of suffering.

It relieves, by digesting the patient's food and enabling his system to transform it into bone and muscle, blood and brain. It cures, by allowing the stomach rest, until it is restored to its natural condition.

If the stomach is weak, the body is weak. If the stomach is strong, the entire body is strong. None of us want to suffer from indigestion or dyspepsia, but the hurry and nervous tension of the times, have made them the commonest complaints of the generation.

Often we eat to fast, too soon after, or too shortly, before violent physical exercise, or severe mental strain. Sometimes we are too busy to eat at all, at the proper time and overload our stomach when the opportunity comes. For awhile, the abused organs stand the strain. Finally it collapses.

WINDSOR CASTLE, WHICH HOLDS THE KAISER'S TELEGRAM.

London.—Perhaps never before have the archives of Windsor castle been the object of such national interest as that occasioned by the famous interview with the Kaiser.

In the archives of Windsor, he stated, is the telegram "In which I informed the sovereign of England of the answer I had returned to the powers which then sought to compass her fall," and also his majesty's plan of campaign against the Boers, "awaiting the serenely impartial verdict of history."

The archives of Windsor castle are in the very center and most dominant part of the castle building—namely, the great round tower. Some years ago a strong room was built in the tower and all the important documents, including Queen Victoria's letters, were removed there. Here it was that Lord Fisher and A. C. Benson edited the volumes which have just been published. The letters are all arranged according to date and carefully docketed, each year's document being placed separately.

The great round tower, from which no fewer than twelve countries can be seen on a fine day, stands upon an artificial mound constructed by the Norman kings and was in former times surrounded by a deep ditch. In days gone by it was the residence of the governor, who was charged with the custody of state prisoners. Here John, king of France, and David, king of Scotland, captives of the Black Prince, were confined. The Marshal de Helldorf, who was taken prisoner during the German wars in the reign of George II, was the last person to be confined in the tower.

In the center of the tower is a large bell captured at the fall of Sebastopol in 1855. It weighs nearly 4,750 pounds and was cast at Moscow.

MRS. GUNNESS ALIVE, SAYS ILLINOIS MAN

Ira Marsh of Oglesby Believes Both She and Jennie Olson Are There.

Laporte, Ind., Dec. 3.—Ira Marsh of Oglesby, Ill., is very insistent that he has located Mrs. Belle Guinness and also Jennie Olson and in a registered letter Wednesday to Sheriff Smutzer, the second in a few days, he declares that Mrs. Guinness is there and he will produce her as soon as he is sure the reward money will be paid him.

This woman arrived in Oglesby in May, this year, and joined a man, who, Marsh declares, had told him several years ago of meeting a widow in Laporte. This man, the writer says, wanted him to go along and to be sure and bring four or five hundred dollars. This man, whose name he does not give, came back to Oglesby, after a trip to Chicago, in January, 1907, a couple of months after Jennie Olson disappeared from the Guinness place, bringing with him a young wife and Marsh declares this woman is the image of Jennie Olson's picture.

Marsh says he is in danger of being killed, but he wants Sheriff Smutzer to come to Oglesby at once and to bring with him Jennie Olson's sisters, who live in Chicago, so that they may identify the woman. Marsh also thinks that the man is the fellow who wrote Mayor Darrow from Chicago on November 23, saying he was the man who accompanied the supposed Mrs. Guinness to Laporte on July 9. Marsh says he is a minor, employed by the Illinois Zinc Company. In view of the verdict of the jury that Mrs. Guinness is dead, thereby corroborating the views of all the officials, it is not likely that any investigation of the story will be made by Prosecutor Smith or Sheriff Smutzer, but Attorney Worden stated that he would probably send a detective to Oglesby to interview Marsh.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 3.—Robert F. Maddox was elected mayor of Atlanta Wednesday by a majority of more than 3,000 votes over James G. Woodward, regular Democratic nominee and twice mayor of the city. Maddox carried every ward in the city except the Third and Fifth.

Mr. Maddox is vice-president of the American National bank and a young man of considerable wealth.

Last Selkirk Settler Dies.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 3.—Word was received from Toronto Wednesday of the death of the last of the Selkirk settlers in the person of John MacKay, at the age of 94. He was born at Kildonan, Scotland. The movement of the Highland Scotch settlers takes its name from Lord Selkirk, the founder, whose plan was to found a settlement of Highland Scotchmen on the plains over which the Hudson Bay Company ruled, north of Winnipeg.

Life.
One must accept life as it is. It gives us great happiness if we are wise enough to see it, and it balances the scales by sending great sorrows, too. But that is life. If you would make the world brighter, try to forget your hurts, dry your eyes, and turn to help those who need the pressure of a friendly hand, the encouragement of a smiling look. Sorrows and troubles of all kinds should teach one a great lesson—the lesson of universal kindness.—Hanna Chat.

Influence of "Pluck."
The blindest, the most purely instinctive efforts of mere "pluck" have a lifting power, and deserve our thankful admiration; every degree and every form of courage tends to raise the whole tone of life within the range of its influence, in proportion to the amount and the quality of the endurance exercised.—Hilbert Journal.

Rattlesnakes.
It is commonly believed that the rattlesnake will strike without giving the warning rattle during the hot days of August, at which time their sight is affected. A new joint is formed to the rattle every time the snake sheds its skin. As the reptile sheds its skin oftener than once a year, the number of joints does not represent the age of the rattlesnake. Many joints are lost by accident or wear. Rattlesnakes are entirely confined to the western hemisphere.
